

2011 Ungulate TAG Hoof Care Workshop Hosted by the Oakland Zoo June 3, 4, and 5, 2011

Under the guidance of the Oakland Zoo's farrier and experienced ungulate keeper and veterinary staff, examine the factors affecting hoof health for captive ungulates and obtain hands on experience with hoof care and trimming procedures with a wide array of species.

Participants will learn animal handling and restraint procedures as well as operant conditioning for medical procedures related to hoof care and trimming.

Tuition is only $325 and includes all transportation to and from the Oakland zoo and the workshop hotel, as well as 3 breakfasts, 3 lunches, and various other snacks and refreshments.

Courtyard Marriott, (510) 568-7600. Discounted hotel room rates are available through May 13, 2011.

This is a hands-on workshop and space is extremely limited! Reserve your space now! To register, contact Amy Phelps at the Oakland Zoo for registration forms and further information: APhelps@oaklandzoo.org or (510) 632-9525, ext. 168.
